

Why do I want to be a Credit Union Director?

When I started out as a director my first thought was, “What do I know about the operation of a Credit Union?”

My job is to listen to the professionals, discuss the situation with the other directors and use sound judgment to make a decision. Although some of the issues are complex, we have opportunities to take training to help us make the necessary decisions.

I want to be part of an organization I believe in, a local organization that provides first rate financial service as well as outstanding community support.

I want to be a part of helping to keep this legacy alive in Biggar.

- Dale Martin